Direct Loan Types

Direct Unsubsidized Loans

Direct Subsidized Loans:

Federal Direct Subsidized Loans are loans made to eligible students who demonstrate financial need. The federal government pays the interest on these loans while the student is in school at least half-time and during the grace period after graduation. The interest rate is fixed at 5.05% for loans made on or after 10/1/2009.

Direct Unsubsidized Loans:

Direct Unsubsidized Loans are loans made to eligible students who do not demonstrate financial need. The borrower is responsible for paying the interest on these loans while the student is in school at least half-time and during the grace period after graduation. The interest rate is fixed at 5.05% for loans made on or after 10/1/2009.

Direct PLUS Loans:

Direct PLUS Loans are loans made to eligible parents of dependent undergraduate students or eligible graduate students. The borrower is responsible for paying the interest on these loans while the student is in school at least half-time and during the grace period after graduation. The interest rate is fixed at 5.05% for loans made on or after 10/1/2009.

- u Direct Consolidation Loans:
Eligible federal student loans can be combined into one Direct Consolidation Loan.

Borrow Wisely

- u Your school will award you the maximum amount of loan money for which you are eligible, unless you request less. You may decline any portion or all of a loan you do not need.
- u Borrow conservatively. Never borrow more than you can

Trouble Making Payments

Forbearance, if you don't meet the eligibility requirements for a deferment but are temporarily unable to make your loan payments. Forbearance allows you to temporarily stop making payments on your loan, temporarily make smaller payments or extend the time for making payments.

- x If you stop making payments and don't get a deferment or forbearance, your loan could go into default, which has serious consequences.
- x Your loan first becomes "delinquent" if your monthly payment is not received by the due date.
- x If you fail to make a payment, your Direct Loan servicer will send you a reminder that your payment is late.
- x If your account remains delinquent, your Direct Loan servicer will send you warning notices reminding you of your obligation to repay your loans and the consequences of default.
- x If you are delinquent on your loan payments, contact your Direct Loan servicer immediately to find out how to bring your account current.

Late fees may be added, and your delinquency will be reported to one or more national consumer reporting agencies (credit bureaus), but this is much better than remaining delinquent on your payments and going into default.

Consequences If You Default

Default occurs when you become 270 days past due (delinquent) in making a payment on your loan(s). The consequences of default can be severe.

The entire unpaid balance of your loan and accrued interest becomes due and payable immediately.

You lose eligibility for deferment.

You lose eligibility for additional federal student financial aid.

Your account is assigned to a collection agency.

The default will be reported as delinquent to credit bureaus, damaging your credit rating.

The federal government can take all or part of your federal tax refund.

Late fees, additional interest, court costs, collection fees, attorney's fees, and other costs incurred in collecting your loan will increase your loan debt.

Your employer (at the request of the federal government) can garnish part of your wages and send them to the government.

The federal government can take legal action against you.

- u School-related discharges

In certain cases, you may be able to have all or a part of your loan canceled because:

Your school closed before you completed your program.

Your school forged your signature on your promissory note or falsely certified that you were eligible to get the loan.

Your loan was falsely certified as a result of the crime of identity theft (additional requirements apply).

You withdrew from school but the school didn't pay a refund that it owed under our regulations.

- u Disability, bankruptcy, or death

Your loan may be discharged if you are determined to be totally and permanently disabled and you meet certain other requirements.

Your loan may be canceled if it is discharged in bankruptcy; this is not an automatic process—you must prove to the bankruptcy court that repaying the loan would cause undue hardship.

Your loan will be canceled if a family member or other representative provides acceptable documentation of your death.

Contact your Direct Loan servicer for more information about loan cancellation benefits.

National Student Loan Data SystemSM (NSLDSSM)

- u You can find information about all of your Direct Loans, FFEL Program Loans, and Federal Perkins Loans by accessing the Department's National Student Loan Data SystemSM (NSLDSSM) at www.nslsds.ed.gov or by calling toll free 1-800-999-8219.

You will need your federal student aid PIN to access NSLDS.

NSLDS does not include information about any private loans you may have received.
